The Giddings News

June 9, 1922

DOUBLE WEDDING

The Double Wedding of Miss The Double Wedding of Miss Vere Hillisman to Mr. Arthur Bausch and Miss Irma Hillisman to Mr. Robert Sloan on Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church at 8:30 o'clock bears the distinction of being the first double ceremony ever solemnized in a Giddings church. For many weeks this wedding has been of unusual interest. interest.

interest.

To begin with the father and the mother of the brides, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hillsman, belong to two of the oldest and most respected families of our town and county; and their own home has been built in accordance with the high character of American Christian ideals that was set for them by their. ter of American Christian ideals that was set for them by their parents. It is small wonder then that when their daughters returned from College to their home that they contributed with willing mind and grace of talent their services in whatever direction the invitation. ever direction the invitation came. And since their talents were many, they have won a place for themselves here that will insure to them and their husbands a permanent welcome "back home." The large audience which awaited the wedding party is sufficient proof of the friendship and the kindly wishes that belong to them here; and from the splendid reports of the admirable questions of vesses. Bausch and Sloan, one feels that two more chagenish friends have been added to cur group.

that two more chagenial friends have been added to cur group.

Under the able direction, of Mash Mattic, Hillsman, the aunt of the brides, the choir platform of the church was arranged in a pyramd of lace ferns, and danny darkers, cape lessardines, and magnollas.

Mesdames Johnson and Howers, two of our most finished musicians, were at the organ and plano respectively. Miss Virgula Eleids sang "Till I'm Called by the Master Above". Miss Fields has just returned from a year of work in voice at the College of Industrial Arts and she sang with sweetness and volume that delighted her friends.

friends.

Mrs. Roy Hosea, an aunt of the brides, sang "I'd Build the World in the Heart of a Rose."

World in the Heart of a Rose."
Her charming voice was clear and beautiful.
As the tones of the Mendellon Wards wounded, it the ushers Messers Allan Cherry, and August Peters (two like childhood school friends of the gribrides) led the wedding party to their places around the chancel.

to their places around the chancel.

They were followed by Misin the season of the Marie Peters, two fairy-like an Stassoms.

The Treonis were accountable of the Treonis were accountable of the Town Stan of the University of leg Towns and Mr. C. D. Christian ful of San Antonio. The four men its worse white fiannel:

The bridge entered with their permitted the standard of the Town Sta parents: Miss Vere on the arm of her father, and Miss Irma on the arm of her mother. They presented a very beautiful picture in their Colonial wedding gowns or white sain carrying in their mittened hands large shower bouquets of orde roses. Their veils were worn off their faces, held in place with a filles of flowers. As they gracefully walked down the 'aisle, one thought of the dalnty brides of long ago. The ceremony performed by the father of one of the grooms, the Revorend T. J. Slean, tector of the Episcopal Church of San Angelo, was neatiful indeed being the ring caremony of the established Church of England.

Immediately following the wadding there was an informatical processing there was an informatical process. parents: Miss Vere on the arm

Immediately following the wedding there was an informal reception at the Hillsman home were hosts of friends gathered to congratulate the young cou-ples and to wish for them only joy and happiness in the years to come. The solos of Mrs. Robert Sloan and Mrs. Clar-ence Test and the dancing of little Miss Katherine. Hosea gave much pleasure to the callers

Many charming gowns were noted. The mother of the brides wore heavy crepe with trimmings of wool lace, her same was further enhance by a beautiful corsage bouquet.

A. Sloan's costume was blue crepe heavily beaded with steel, with trimmings of grey.

The happy couples took the midnight train, for Galveston where they will spend their lengthnoon, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bausch will reside in Houston 'and Mr. and Mrs. Storn will live in Tampleo, Mexico, They were the recip forts of many valuable and use. If the gifts, attesting the popularful gifts, attesting the nepular-City of these young people. The convenient to mar the unex-F pected events of the evening L arose when the newly weds, in their eagerness to leave Gid-dings and establish homes of their own, entered the wrong pullman coach and finding that the porter could not come to the porter could not come to the rescue, it was necessary for them to come out and enter another coach, during which time showers of ree greeted them by many of their friends and well-wishers.