STANGE - DOMASCHK

The marriage of Miss Mildred Louise Domaschk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Domaschk, to Raymond Stange, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stange of Victoria, was solemnized at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in a doublering ceremony performed by Rev. W. W. Sratmann.

The church was decorated with palms and white asters and gladioli, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. T. W. Whitmarsh, Jr. Mrs. Ward Dillard sang the bridal solos "At Dawning" and "Until."

The bride wore a princess gown of white organdy over ruffling down the front length of her frock. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a headdress of tulle folds and orange blossoms. and she carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and gladioli.. Her sister, Dorothy Domaschk, was maid of honor, gowned in pink organdy over taffeta. Miss Marie Stange, sister of the groom, and Miss Marguerite Schneider of Giddings as bridesmalds, were in similar bouffant frocks of blue, and the junior bridesmaid, Bertha Agnes Do-mascha wore pink, Their flowers were gladioli in hues harmonizing with their gowns: -

James Brown served as best man, and the groomsmen were Louis Domaschk, brother of the bride, and Ernest Spiegelhauser of Victoria.

A reception for relatives and out-of-town guests was held at the Domaschk home after the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake bride's table and her bouquet was placed on a mirror at one end of the candle-lighted board. Assisting in the house party were Mrs. Martin Kieschnick, Mrs. Whitmarsh and Miss Bon- ing the wedding included: Mesnie Gardner.

Mrs. Stange will make their der, Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Biar and home here. The bride's travel-centered the ing costume is a brown printed silk model with brown accessories and a corsage of gladioli. -Houston Chronicle.
