

The Giddings News

August 13, 1920

MARRIED AT COURT HOUSE

Judge Tate had the honor of performing a ceremony at the Court House Monday, saying the words that united George Washington and Bessie Jones as man and wife. The writer was in the building at the time and just stepped out of the County Clerk's office where the Judge was looking up some matters as commissioners court was in session, and when he returned from the Judge's office the ceremony was over and the parties gone on their way rejoicing.